Black Diamond Video Installs New Zero Footprint OR in Huntair Showroom

Point Richmond, California, October 6, 2014 – Black Diamond Video today announced it completed installation of a state-of-the-art Zero Footprint OR™ in the Huntair showroom in Phoenix, Arizona. The showroom displays the latest in OR integration solutions from Black Diamond Video, surgical lights and booms from Trumpf, and innovative CLEANSUITE® laminar flow ventilation technology from Huntair.

"The partnership with Huntair developed naturally as both of our companies are best in class and are focused on designing and developing meaningful technologies for today's OR," says Devon Bream, Global Vice President of Medical Sales and Marketing for Black Diamond Video.

In the showroom, Black Diamond Video showcases its newly launched methodology for operating room design, the Zero Footprint OR, by positioning the IDSS equipment rack outside of the showroom's mock operating room. BDV's Zero Footprint OR approach locates BDV's IDSS equipment rack outside of the operating room at a distance up to 1000 meters without video signal degradation. By removing the rack from the operating room, BDV supports infection control and lends great flexibility to architects and equipment planners.

Clients visiting the showroom are able to experience advanced features of Black Diamond Video's IDSS, just as they could in many of today's operating suites: ultra HD 4K image management, multi-source windowing of surgical video, unique tablet-based viewing and control functions, and intuitive device auto-identification provided by BDV's industry-first common connector technology. Clients can see firsthand how seamlessly BDV systems integrate with boom, light and other equipment manufacturers.

"When clinical teams are considering innovative, cost-saving new technologies for new OR builds and remodels, this new showroom will illustrate these solutions working in harmony," says Bream. "This integrated showroom is yet another demonstration of why BDV is the fastest growing company in the integrated OR space."

"Our end users benefit from our synergistic relationship with Black Diamond Video and Trumpf," says Kevin Schreiber, Director of Healthcare for CLEANSUITE. "Together, we are able to deliver great operating room solutions that integrate flawlessly with one other. We look forward to welcoming and educating customers from around the world at this facility."
