Black Diamond Video Receives Certification for EHR Integration

Point Richmond, California, June 2, 2015 – Black Diamond Video today announced it was awarded certification by a leading electronic health record provider, certifying that Black Diamond Video's BDV Clarity™ solution is fully capable of integrating BDV OR video system data with the EHR provider's electronic health record solution.

For each leading EHR provider, Black Diamond Video has developed a simple, secure BDV Clarity™ interface that imports patient record and schedule HL7 information from the EHR system to Black Diamond Video's Integrated Digital Surgical Suite system in the operating room. Import of this HL7 information supports simplified and accurate patient recordkeeping. High definition images and recordings captured by the IDSS system during surgical procedures are then exported to the EHR provider's media storage for later clinical access. Black Diamond Video's certification by an EHR provider verifies effective interaction between BDV's integrated OR solution and the EHR provider's electronic health record system.

During the announcement of Black Diamond Video's certification for EHR integration, Devon Bream, Vice President of Global Medical Sales and Marketing at Black Diamond Video, said:

"This certification is another great example of BDV's focus on designing, developing, and deploying meaningful tools for healthcare clinicians. BDV's comprehensive library of EHR interfaces is industry-leading and ensures successful EHR-to-OR integration, regardless of the EHR vendor selected. When BDV integrates with EHR systems, this allows our customers to leverage their EHR investment toward creating an enterprise-wide solution for clinical workflow."

In addition to interfacing with EHR solutions, Black Diamond Video's BDV Clarity solution also offers BDV Nurse Core View, BDV Physician Remote View, and other tools to increase clinical workflow visibility, communication and collaboration.
